1898 THE POST, Belgium

Located in the very heart of Ghent, the designer hotel is opened in the upper floors of Ghent's old post office building. The hotel offers 38 guests rooms which are decorated in a warm style with high ceilings, dark green walls and antique furniture complementing the building's late 19th century architecture. It is built in an eclectic style, with predominantly neo-Gothic and neo-Renaissance influences, echoing the beautiful facade. The 52 meters tall striking clock tower adds an exquisite touch to the historical vista formed by the Belfry of Ghent, St Bavo's Cathedral, and St. Michael's Bridge. With great views through the grand window, the restored wood and indirect lighting create a cozy atmosphere accented with a contemporary touch of freshness. In addition to the guestrooms, there is a multi-functional room suited for both business and tourism gatherings – from meetings and product presentations to festive dinners. The hotel's crowning touch is the cocktail bar called The Cobbler, that reflects an old-time atmosphere with a stunning view of the spires of historic Ghent.
